How to Fundraise (Without the Headache!)

Whether you're raising money for travel, uniforms, or extra training, fundraising doesn't have to be overwhelming. With a little planning and teamwork, it can actually be fun and super rewarding.

Step 1: Team Up!

Fundraising is always easier when you're not doing it alone. Grab a few other families or parents and tackle one idea together. You can:

- Split responsibilities (marketing, supplies, collecting money)
- Take turns supervising events
- Reach a bigger audience by combining networks
- Even a small group can make a big impact—and it's more fun for the kids when they do it with their friends!

Step 2: Choose the Right Fundraiser

Not every fundraiser works for every family. Pick something simple and low-cost that fits your group's time and energy. Check out our full list of ideas on the next page

Disclaimer: Thunder Elite cannot provide or sponsor anything for these fundraisers and all fundraisers must be non-affiliated.

Step 3: Promote It

Use group texts, email, social media, and even a printed flyer to get the word out. Don't be shy—people want to support your kids!

Try sharing:

- What you're fundraising for
- a picture or video of your athlete in their element
- How people can help or donate
- When and where the event or sale is happening
- AND THAT IT'S TAX DEDUCTIBLE

Step 4: Keep It Simple, Keep It Going

You don't need to raise all the money at once. One or two mini fundraisers each month can add up fast. Focus on consistency over perfection!
